

Dr. Anita Sethi

Ophthalmology Surgeon

Dr Anita Sethi is presently heading the ophthalmology department at the New Delhi facility of one of India's fastest growing chain of short-stay surgery centres. Trained at India's leading medical college, AIIMS, New Delhi, Dr Sethi is proficient in anterior segment surgery including Phacoemulsification surgery and LASIK. She also has a keen interest in orbital and oculoplastic surgery.

While working as Consultant, Ophthalmology at the Sir Ganga Ram Hospital, New Delhi, apart from routine clinical work she was also involved in various teaching programmes for the DNB students as a guide. She has co-authored a book on phacoemulsification entitled- "Manual of Phaco technique: A text and Atlas. She has also written a number of papers in indexed journals.

Dr. Sethi has chaired numerous sessions and conducted workshops at a national level in the various aspects of lid and orbital surgery. She has participated as faculty in many conferences in the areas of Phacoemulsification and LASIK.

Medical conditions, procedures, and areas of expertise:

- Ophthalmology
- Anterior Segment Surgery
- Phacoemulsification Surgery
- LASIK
- Orbital Surgery
- Oculoplastic Surgery